Kindles, Nooks and other e-readers are threatening the future of printed books. But reading itself may get a boost from the devices. For example, a study found that the kids felt better about reading after a course in which they used Amazon Kindles. The research is in the International Journal of Applied Science and Technology.

For two months, 199 middle-school students in a reading improvement class in Texas had 15 to 25 minutes every day when they were free to read on the Kindle. In general, the students felt the device improved their reading ability. And they tended to enjoy using an e-reader.

However, some low-level readers may feel somewhat embarrassed when they are seen with a simple book. Because they can never use fake book covers as in the past to keep their peers in the dark.

Almost everyone is familiar with video conferencing today, and for good reasons. Video conferencing is convenient. Video conferencing saves money. Video conferencing makes money. And it is so much easier than it used to be.

Today, of course, video conferencing has become an important means for doing business. There is no longer a need to waste time and money traveling, and the advanced technology can offer what every conferencing needs. Audio, web and video together can provide good solutions for large conferences with Q&A sessions and private chats.

Why is video conferencing so successful when other technologies have come and gone? It is because it's convenient and cost-effective. In addition to saving time and money, video conferencing is a lot less stressful than a meeting after a day of airport security, delayed flights and hotel check-in, etc.

Best of all, video conferencing is not expensive nowadays. Web, video and audio conferencing service providers can quickly get you up and running, often without setup fees or high charges. With all that's available today, the only question is whether a business can afford not to use user-friendly video conferencing.

26. It's easy to use video conferencing in the past.

27. Video conferencing is a convenient way for doing business.

26—30 题:根据短文内容判断给出的语句是否正确,正确的写“T”,错误的写“F”,并将答案写在答题纸上。

Improving work safety is a must and a goal. It should be on everyone's mind. According to the US Department of Labor, every year almost 6000 people are fatally injured at work. More than four million people suffer non-fatal injuries. What's worse, many of these deaths and injuries were due to carelessness, and could have easily been avoided by paying more attention to safety rules.

Employers are required to provide a safe workplace, but your safety at work is your business. If you feel like the environment is unsafe and your complaints fall on deaf ears, you should look for other employment or report the problem to the proper authorities. Of course, some jobs are more dangerous than others. If you have one of these jobs, you'll need to be extra alert. Deaths and injuries occur in all kinds of employment.

Thankfully, there are a great many things you can do to improve your safety at work. You can improve safety awareness among your coworkers and supervisors, as well as lobby your employer to improve safety policies, practices, and training. Be active when it comes to workplace safety. Don't wait for others to pick up the ball. While you're waiting, you may wind up getting injured. So take it upon yourself to do what you can to reduce your chances of being injured at work.

26. Improving work safety is necessary.

27. Many of these deaths and injuries at work could have been avoided.

28. You could do nothing if you feel like the environment is unsafe and your complaints fall on deaf ears.

29. Deaths and injuries only occur in dangerous jobs.

30. When it comes to workplace safety, the employees should be concerned about their own safety.

Audio, web and video together can provide good solutions for large conferences with Q&A sessions and private chats.

Why is video conferencing so successful when other technologies have come and gone? It is because it's convenient and cost-effective. In addition to saving time and money, video conferencing is a lot less stressful than a meeting after a day of airport security, delayed flights and hotel check-in, etc.

Best of all, video conferencing is not expensive nowadays. Web, video and audio conferencing service providers can quickly get you up and running, often without setup fees or high charges. With all that's available today, the only question is whether a business can afford not to use user-friendly video conferencing.

26. It's easy to use video conferencing in the past.

27. Video conferencing is a convenient way for doing business.

28. Only video can provide good solutions for large conferences with Q&A sessions.

29. Compared to some other forms of meetings, video conferencing is much more stressful.

Improving work safety is a must and a goal. It should be on everyone's mind. According to the US Department of Labor, every year almost 6000 people are fatally injured at work. More than four million people suffer non-fatal injuries. What's worse, many of these deaths and injuries were due to carelessness, and could have easily been avoided by paying more attention to safety rules.

Employers are required to provide a safe workplace, but your safety at work is your business. If you feel like the environment is unsafe and your complaints fall on deaf ears, you should look for other employment or report the problem to the proper authorities. Of course, some jobs are more dangerous than others. If you have one of these jobs, you'll need to be extra alert. Deaths and injuries occur in all kinds of employment.

Thankfully, there are a great many things you can do to improve your safety at work. You can improve safety awareness among your coworkers and supervisors, as well as lobby your employer to improve safety policies, practices, and training. Be active when it comes to workplace safety. Don't wait for others to pick up the ball. While you're waiting, you may wind up getting injured. So take it upon yourself to do what you can to reduce your chances of being injured at work.

26. Improving work safety is necessary.

27. Many of these deaths and injuries at work could have been avoided.

28. You could do nothing if you feel like the environment is unsafe and your complaints fall on deaf ears.

29. Deaths and injuries only occur in dangerous jobs.

30. When it comes to workplace safety, the employees should be concerned about their own safety.
